True and exact Relation of a great

Winchester, by Colonell Hurry, Colonell Browne, and others of the Parliaments forces, on Tuesday last

Pon Thursday last, there came a Post to the Parliament with Letters from Winchester, ferting forth a very great victory obtained against the Cavalliers in Winchester on Tuelday laft, being to this effect, That the Lord Digby. Lord Grandilos, Commissary Wilmot, and some other of their Confederacy, having possessed themfelves of Malborough, and most cruelly pillaged the fame, ravishing the women and maidens in a most barbarous manner, shewing themselves to be the true formes of the Rebbels in Ireland, hearing that Colonell Hurry, Colonell Browne, whose name is very dreadfull to them, Colonell Middleton and fir William Waller with their forces we e comming against them, thought ir no boote to flay there, having got what they came for, namely, gnigelliq pillaging, but kft Malborough in that lamentable condition, and the Lord Digby with a part of the force, and a greatest part of the pillaged returned to Oxford, leaving the Lord Grandson with other forces to see what further pillage might be procuted in those parts, whereupon the Lord Grandson the better to protect himselfe and his Cavalliers from the pursuit of the Parliaments forces, retreated to Winchester, a place most likely to give him entertainment of any place thereabouts, being full of malignant spirits, who indeed were nor a little joy full of his comming, thinking themselves lecure from any danger.

But the Parliaments forces comming to Malborough, and missing of the Cavaltiers, resolved to follow in hor pursuit of them, and to revenge their cheltieagainst that towner whereupon after some courfing about the Countrey having nonce by their Scouts of the Lord Grandilons being at Winchefor, they bear their force withall freed thicher way, and as it is informed nearely milled the Lord Digbyes forces in their passage, and came before Winchester on Tuesday last, the Cavalliers having notice the pof, were not a little fartled, and finding it altogether unfafe to keepethemielves within the town and give the parliaments forces opportunity to befiedge them, for that then they could not bee able to hold out long for want of provisions, they relolved to march out and give them battell, and accordingly put their forces into Battalia, and marched our beforethe Towne to a pitched feld.
